day morning.

They followed the ritual of the old Samurais.

Pirst they purified themselves with cold water. He put on a full dress uniform; she donned a white slik kimono.

They swept the best room of their home and placed fresh flowers in the household sanctuary. Mrs. Aoshims wrote a letter to her father, also an army officer, and her mother saying:

"The day has now come when I must act as a soldier's wife should."

AFTER PRAYERS

Then, with prayers, the lieutenant linelt with a short sword gripped in his two hands. His wife knelt beside him. He plunged the point of the sword into the left side of his abdomen and drew it across to the right. Still kneeling, despite the agony of pain, he slashed his throat and fell forward on his face.

Mrs. Aoshims fell forward on the sword, severing an artery.

Both were found lying on their faces, the "honorable" position of death. The Japanese believe it a disgrace for one who has committed hari-kiri to lie on the back, for that would show a weakness in the face of death.

GETTING OUT OF CHAOS

"WE ARE TAKING," MR. CORDELL Hull, Secretary of State in President Rossevelt's cabinet, says, "the only way out . . . our extreme tariff policy was one of the great contributing forces making for depression and distress throughout the country." Writing in the March Harper's on "High Tariff Versus Trade," he deals with the Washington government's reciprocity programme.

It was the only way, he says, in attempting to bring order to "the chaotic condition of arbitrary allotments, irritating restrictions, stagnated world trade; to restore mutually profitable international trade; to facilitate the stabilization of the international ments, Mr. Hull asserts that "if human experience has taught any lesson during the past six years it has demonstrated with certainty that the decline of international commerce and the difficulties of international finance have been among the most destructive factors in one of the most destructive depressions."

Since 1929 the various countries had adopted every conceivable policy, method and device in desperate efforts to extricate themselves from unbearably depressed conditions. Considering their problems primarily from the national point of view, they had built up trade barriers that had stifled world commerce. The result had been "the breakdown of inmerce. The result had been "the breakdown of in-ternational monetary stability, the entire dislocation of the international price structure, and the damming up of surpluses of goods, productive facilities and man-power the world over."

Few people, Mr. Hull thinks, have doubted profitable when looking at foreign trade as a whole But, "many special international results as a whole But, "many special interests have consistently expressed horror at the idea of imports at the very moment when they were expressing enthusiasm for the development of exports, without apparently realizing the absurdity of their position.

"The bitter experience of the past six years under the highest tariffs in our history, should have convinced the most ardent and confirmed high protectionists that embargo tariffs do not insure domestic prosperity. . . . Such tariffs have forced the people of this country to pay fat subsidies to certain favored They have dealt a severe blow to our foreign trade by shutting off foreign purchasing power for our products and by causing retaliatory measures in many countries. Prices have dropped, factories sed, workmen have been discharged, and farmers have been unable to sell their surpluses.

Since the passing of the act, trade agreements have been signed by the United States with Cuba, Belgium, Haiti, Sweden, Brazil, Colombia, Canada, The Netherlands, Honduras and Switzerland. Results of the agreement with Cuba, the first to go into effect, are now apparent. Were there any of the disastrous consequences to home industry foretold by the ultra-high-tariff devotees? Mr. Hull replies: "Only a steady, healthy increase in trade with Cuba, amounting during the first fourteen months of the agreement to a gain of about 73 per cent!" He supports this with a number of comparative figures.

of the Reciprocity Agreement with Canada, now under debate in the House of Commons at Ottawa and under mild criticism from some political opponents in certain areas in the United States, Mr. Hull asserts the agreement leaves for "both agriculture and industry adequate protection even from a high-tariff standpoint in the domestic market." He avers that consumers in both countries will benefit from stabilized prices of many products."

Majority opinion in Canada agrees with Mr.

Hull that "it should now be entirely apparent that the stalemate in world trade is not to be ended by good wishes or ancient political touchstones. . . It will be dissipated by skilful, patient negotiations to reduce some of those barriers to levels at which mutually advantageous trade can be resumed.

CHARLTE CHAPLIN EMERGES

CHARLES CHAPLIN, AT FOUR OR five-year intervals, emerges from semi-retirement produce a new picture which restores him from legend to a fresh vital force in the screen world. Recently he announced his intention of entering the field of scheduled production, with several of his own comedies, and a number of pictures directed by him to be periodically released.

There is reason to believe that Chaplin could not retire from active production even if he wanted to. The virus of the theatre is too deeply in his blood. His father and mother were both "show people." He de his first appearance on the stage as a baby in his mother's arms.

Charles Spencer Chaplin was born in London, England, on April 16, 1889. His father, also named Charles Chaplin, was an all favorite of the London musical halls, as well as of the New York theatres in 1890. He died while Charlie was still a youngster. Charlie's mother, Mrs. Hannab Chaplin, won considerable fame as a prima donna in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

With this theatrical heritage, Charlie took to the tage as the proverbial duck takes to the proverbial vater. At an early age he became a member of a juvenile dancing company known as the Eight Lan-cashire Lads. His first hit was as the little page boy, Billy, in "Sherlock Holmes." Even then he had an extensive reputation among "show people" for his informal, offstage imitations of Sir Herbert Beer-m Tree and other noted English actors.

There still may be many in Victoria who re-mber Charlie Chaplin in Fred Carno's "Mumming Birds." He came out to this country in 1910 in that company's memorable skit—"A Night in a London Music Hall."

Although Chaplin is what is called on the right side of fifty-he is only forty-seven-he is able to side of hity—he is only forty-seven—he is anie to sit back in his opulant surroundings at Hollywood, finding comfort in the fact that he has made millions throughout the world laugh. He will be welcomed back in his new picture; he will rekindle old associa-tions, make millions laugh again in the waning days Nazi Germany, of course, will not permit th new show to be shot across the screen there. The chief reason is that Charlie's adornment on the upper lip resembles too much that which adorns Reichsfuehrer Hitler's upper lip.

DEPRESSION PHILOSOPHY

ONE OF THE TRAGEDIES OF THIS

That is bad enough for the adult population. But precept is even worse. When hundreds of thouthe precept is even worse. When hundreds of thou-sands of our people accept this idea of dependence, what have we done to self-reliant character? The answer will come booming back at us soon enough.

If there is one thing we ought to encourage today, it is the old-fashioned idea of self-reliance. Many people today have slipped too easily into the rut of dependence upon others.

NO HITLERISM IN CANADA

CABLES FROM GARMISCH-PARTEN-kirchen, scene of the winter Olympics in Ger-many, recently carried a perfect portrayal of some of the less pleasant aspects of dictatorship.

Two persons were hurt, several fainted, and hundreds were bruised and scratched in a milling crowd which Nazi soldiers kept in the Olympic stadium for more than two hours, until Chancelle Hitler and other high officials had departed.

Many stood ankle-deep in mud, but this made no difference to the Nazi guards, ordered to hold back the crowds so that Reichsfuehrer Hitler might come and go with safety and ease.

But strangely, one correspondent cabled, most of these regimented thousands seemed satisfied. They had learned to bear the yoke meekly, which is perhaps the chief reason for giving thanks that Canada is not

PERSONALITY COUNTS

A NEW YORK EDUCATOR, DR. George J. Ryan, makes the striking suggestion that candidates for teaching posts be rated on their character and personality rather than on mere book character and personality rather than on mere Dook knowledge. The idea is well worth consideration. The ability to develop a sound outlook on life, and the capacity to adjust himself to the world in which he lives, are but two of the salient benefits a teacher with real character and personality can pass on to his students. A child is influenced more by one genuine personality than by hundreds of books.

The idea, of course, should not be carried to extremes. Books contribute the finest backgrounds to both personality and character. A happy combi-nation of the two approaches the educational ideal.

"The substitution of Liberals for Conservatives," said Prof. F. R. Scott at the Montreal meeting of the League for Social Reconstruction, "will never do the job the people of Canada want done." But the people of Canada knew what they wanted done last October and made a pretty thorough job of it.

TIME CANADA GREW UP The Brooks (Alberta) Bulletin

It is quite a job reconciling the various factions in Canada, particularly when it is so easy to arouse pasions by catering to narrow visions and prejudices. It is a simple matter in Ontario and Quebec to arouse hostility towards western Canada by pointing to the millions or dollars spent in western development and the millions more spent in relief and extended in the way of loans to western provinces. . Atlantic maritimers have a programme of grievances peculiarly their own. Kept out of their natural, market in the New England section of the United States, and a long, long way from the manufacturing areas of central Canada, they are bitter in their outlook and hostile in their criticism of conditions. The sturdy Pathers of Confederation understood the enormous difficulties in the way of uniting the conflicting forces of the vast Dominion their wisdom that it was infinitely preferable to have one nation occupying the northern half of this continent rather than half a dozen small independent states. The passing years have justified their beliefs.

Across The Bay

You can't expect the Legislature to look like a haggis all the time —yes, Vancouver has the best, indubitably—Mr. Pooley remem-bers a grim tale—and Mr. Stout has his revenge.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A GRIZZLED SCOT stopped me on the street the other day, not to offer me violence, but to utter a slight protest. He said he wished I would stop writing about the Legislature and concentrate on haggis. He said there was far more in the smallest haggis than in the whole Legislature. This is very true, but I can't make the Legislature exciting. I can't more to it look like that way by itself.

The fact is that our politics are growing dull and respectable. I doubt that you will ever see the good old days of violence and excitement again. Our politicians are taking their jobs seriously and getting down to business, as we have been asking them to do for a generation. Now that they are doing it, the public is bitterly disappointed, for what the public really wants of politics, of life itself, ian't business, ian't efficiency, isn't respectability. The public wants something to excite it. The public wants battle.

That is why the public galleries

That is why the public galleries across the Bay these days are scantily filled by a few old people, who have no other means of putting in their time, and by some ladies who find this a convenient and warm place to knit sweaters.

on other means of putting in their time, and by some ladies who find this a convenient and warm place to knit sweaters.

There are a couple of amateur economists who att by the rail and gaze down, muttering and groaning to themselves, their eyes glowing with a flerce inward light, because they imagine, poor fellows, that the financial illusions of this House, its ignorance of real economics, make some difference in the world. They chafe and fret and almost cry out in agony when, they hear some legislator talking economic nonsense, as if it mattered. THE BEST

VANCOUVER has chosen a song for its Golden Jubilee. It is colossal. (I refer to the song). Waiter Evans, head of the Jubilee celebration committee, says it has a "stirring quality," even without music, and it contains rousing sentiments, as, for example, when it commands Vancouver to "let the world go "round and "round, you can't do less." On any other occasion but its Jubilee, Vancouver evidently might stop the world going round and round; but in the spirit of carnival it won't interfere with the normal course of the universe. There is a course of the universe. There is a real neighborly spirit for you.

real neighboris spirit for you.

But the song is too besutiful to need any explanation or envious comment from us over here. Such clear, crystal beauty should not be polished or adorned, so I am going to quote the words exactly as they came from Vancouver's nameless poet laurates. eate:

Come to the show. let's go—let's go and join the cavalcade.

March along and sing a song and boom the Big Parade.

Make the other fellow come, blow the busic, beat the drum.

Pall in line and show how fine your stride can be.

Pollow the band and wave a hand and shout aloud with siee.

Boy—O—Boy, there's lots of joy in half a century, there's lots of joy in half a century. Hurray: It's Vancouver's Jubilee.

Let the old world so round and round,
you can't do less,
Give a good grip and boost a greater kindliness:
Shoulder your friendly share and smile, held to the things that are worth while,
Rally a cheer—never a fear—surely the best is here.

ONE OF THE TRAGEDIES OF THIS particular depression era has been the growing psychology of dependence. Unwittingly, many older folk have developed this sort of philosophy, which their children and children's children will have to fight down.

Casually, we have adopted the outlook—"if everybody else is getting something for nothing, we might as well get into the buggy and ride, too." This has gone so far that the fighting, independent spirit sometimes seems to have been somewhat sidetracked.

That is a peculiarly nasty idea. We have done enough damage to the have done done on the have done enough damage to the have done enough damage to the have done enough damage to the have done done on the have done done on the have done enough damage to the have done done on the

I dare say we could dress our few surviving natives up in cedar bark robes and buy some moccasins for them from Eaton's, but would it be worth while after all? Do you think we could ever really put any glamour and romance into these poor simple people whom we have reduced from a race of gallant fighters and brave hunters to a race which knits woolen sweaters? After taking their island from them and their civilization the least we can do is leave them alone. I dare say we could dress our few

So we find in Mr. Luff's own words that we have and have not production for use. Thus, on February 15 Mr. Luff finds "production for use meaningless," on February 27 he places it in a "secondary" position! LINCOLN ZEPHYR

For two years it has been rumored that Ford would enter the medium-price field with a car of Lincoln quality. That car has arrived and you can now see it in our showrooms. The Lincoln-Zephyr carries aero-dynamic design to graceful, logical conclusions. Streamlines sweep from end to end and with its smooth, 110-horsepower V-12 engine it establishes a new standard of satisfaction in motoring. Yet with all its outward beauty and amazingly fine engine it is a quality car. It has been made in a specially equipped division of the Lincoln plant, where it has always been a tradition to build the finest cars in the world . . . regardless of cost.

for Athens.

At 72, this "grand old man of the Balkans" is a political exile in Paris. But the combined break of victory of his party at the polls in Athens and the sudden and unexpected death of General George Kondylls, his bitterest opponent, have set the stage for yet another "comeback."

The importance of another Venizelos comeback at this time lies in the fact that he is known to favor the British in the present Mediterranean scramble, and would undoubtedly ratify and support the military understanding that now exists between Britain and Greece in case of trouble with Mussolini and the Italian point of view.

KING HAD BROKEN WITH KONDYLIS

KING HAD BROKEN WITH KONDYLIS
It was Kondylis, too, who broke the Venizelist "revolt" in Crete last spring, and afterward declared that Venizelos must never be allowed to return to Greece. It was Kondylis whose military coup restored King George to the throne last October. Then when the Venizelist party polled a small majority over the Kondylists in January, Kondylis said he would by force prevent Venizelo's return, despite an orderly and honest decision at the polls in his favor. Then Kondylis suddenly died.
Venizelos now has an open road shead of him to a return and his poils in his favor. Then Kondylls suddenly died.

Venizelos now has an open road ahead of him to a return, and his sixth premiership. King George, who had already split with Kondylls in the few months since his restoration, might be expected to welcome Venizelos as head of the government.

Venizelos is best known through his part in aligning Greece with the the Allies during the World War. King Constantine was then pro-German, his wife being sister of Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany. Venizelos succeeded in setting up a pro-Ally revolutionary government, deposing Constantine. He sent Greek troops to Salonika, and took part in the Versallies peace conference.

Living comfortably in Paris with his young wife, Venizelos might hesitate at re-entering the maelstrom of Greek politics. But on the other hand, he has never yet been deaf to such a call to power as is expected to come to him from King George as a result of Venizelos' latest victory at the polis.

up with the queen. This looked as if he were splitting his honors, so declarer decided to obtain a finessing position and let West hold the trick. The ten of hearts was returned. East showed out by discarding a diamond. Declarer won with the king and led the eight of spades, finessing dummy's jack. East won the trick with the king. Now you can see that any return East makes will cost him a trick.

He elected to return a small diamond. Declarer, won with the jack and immediately cashed the ace of diamonds. He now played the ace of spades, discarding a small heart.

Another spade was returned. East was forced to win with the ten and was now helpless. All he could do was cash his king of diamonds and concede the remainder of the tricks to declarer for three no trump. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Their last evening together! Many MacKenzie had not had an altogether gay girlhood, what with the drear barrenness of Moosetown and the gyrannical domination of her father. But this was a new kind of painthis thought that tomorrow Tony would soar into the air and be gone, in just the same unexpected manner in which he had arrived in the winter. And Tony himself, Tony the gay one, the good companion, the aimost never serious. Was she after all no more to him than pleasant-company in a wilderness? Certainly he had indicated no more during the evening they spent together, played their silly little games together, peen very gay. Tony had obviously been excited at the prospect of flying south again. Was he really glad to go—would he go without leaving a single hope of reunion except that gay, boylish laught wery sortity.

But the morning came, as it always comes even after the longests night, and Mary was scarcely dressed when as kneed to the father. But the morning came, as it always comes even after the lopgest night, and Mary was carcely dressed when a kneck at the door told her that Tony was ready.

Together they set out for the field mear the town where Tony had discovered a smoother surface than the use which brought disaster on his trival at Moosetown. Tony was in ying dress and carries.

There was another silence between them as they walked across the field to the plane.

"All ready, Greasy, is she?" called the heard every word. He stared at the motor throbbing.

"I don't want you to go away." Together they set out for the field near the town where Tony had discovered a smoother surface than the one which brought disaster on his arrival at Moosetown. Tony was in flying dress and carried a small suit-case. Mary, her short, tousled hair blowing in the spring breeze, looked even more delightfully girlish than ever. But somehow conversation between them was a little strained.

"Are you glad to be getting back to Montreal?" queried Mary as they strode along toward the field.

"This'll teach you to take my daughter away!" blazed MacKenzie. "Now get out! Get out o' this town!"
Tony took one quick step toward MacKenzie in furious anger, then suddenly stopped and becan to laugh.

ness of the words struck Mary like a blow. Suddenly she seemed to know that he would never come back! Montreal, his old associates, his father, his work—his girl there; For the first time it struck her—so attractive a fellow as Tony would be bound to have a girl there! Odd that she hadn't thought of it before. But. of course, it must be true. Mary fell sillent as they walked along together. Finally she felt obliged to make conversation.

They point out that we don't have to drive right up almost bumper-to-bumper with the car ahead. If we do, the chances are we can't stop as quickly as we may need to if he suddenly stops, slows up, or makes a turn. But if we drop back a little, and take a little extra room, we won't have to worry about "stopping on a dime" or turning out at right angles to avoid bumping. And we won't pick up such a flie collection of nicked fenders and bent bumpers, either.

But a reasonable interval of space, or even clear sailing, for that matter, won't do us much good if we don't keep a time won't have time to do what we may have to do. Allof-a-sudden a car may dash out of a side street, and we want to be sure ue can keep our car and that car from being in the same place at the same time. And we don't want to have to stop so fast that cars behindwe this late seek other for perhaps a block back.

we don't want to have to stop so fast that ca us pile into each other for perhaps a block Now, just as we need a safety margin ahead, we also need to protect ourselves from behind. For instance, many drivers tell us that when they want to turn or stop, they make it a rule to start at least behind. For instance, many drivers tell us that when they want to turn or stop, they make it a rule to start at least two blocks beforehand, getting into the right position. If somebody behind sees them gradually working over to the right, for example, why, he naturally figures that they're either going to turn or stop. So he gives them a wide berth, to keep out of trouble, we may all know these things, but we know them so well we're apt to get careless about them. Because

We may all know these things, but we know them so well we're apt to get careless about them. Because the we can drive almost automatically, and hardly have to even think about it, we're apt to go rolling along thinking of something else. Then, all at once, our eyes have an important message for our brain, and when they try to get the message through, the line is busy!

So it doesn't pay to let our thoughts go wool-gathering. As a matter of fact, it makes city driving just one emergency after another, which takes all the pleasure out of it. And there is pleasure in city driving when we know we're doing a skillful job, keeping the proper margins of time and space.

ABERHART'S STA 'MENT'

Calgary, March 2.—"We must go forward," Premier Aberhart of Alberta told the congregation at his Prophetic Bible Institute here yesterday as he warned them to be prepared for more "vicious" attacks from opponents of Social Credit and said they must march "side by side" with him:

"I will give you the same advice as Oliver Gromwell gave to his roundheads," the Premier declared. "My advice is to trust in God and keep your powder dry. By keeping your powder dry.

A tag day in aid of the association will be held Saturday, March 14. Any persons willing to aid are asked to please communicate with Hugh 'C. Farquhar, 2180 Beach Drive, or telephone Empire 4501.

Two boats are ready for service and both have answered emergency calls in the last year. Boat No. 1 is stationed at Clover Point and Boat No. 2 at the Oak Bay boathouse. It is hoped the funds from the tag day will be sufficient to build a house for No. 2 boat.

Two crews of four men at Clover Foint and two crews of eight men at Oak Bay are in training.

SURPRISE VOICED

Premier Aberhart said he was surprised to read in the newspapers that Major Douglas had stated his contract with the Alberta Government did not cover the production of a Social Credit plan.
"I believe the phrase 'chief reconstruction adviser' covers the adoption of a Social Credit plan," the Premier added.

Referring to a report the Provost Alta., Social Credit group had alta., Social Credit group had been solved in the Social Credit Government, "providing" the government cabled Major Douglas to come to Alberta immediately. Mr. Aberhart stated he wondered if Provost had been following the "trend of events." He outlined the various communications between the government and Mr. Douglas. The latter had replied he could not come to Alberta earlier than March 30.

"I am still smiling and hope Provost and other groups will stand behind me even if Douglas does not come." the Premier said. "I am satisfied he will come and everything will be ship-shape. If he does not, we will get another expert."

FEET ON GROUND

FEET ON GROUND

When attacks of Social Credit opponents are concentrated on the government, "we will have our feet on solid ground," Premier Aberhart assured his followers. Had he taken the wild advice of some who, had written to the government, there would have been no money left to pay civil servants and other governmental expenses.

"Please remember we have been in power only six months—not six years—just six months," he said. "Some have demanded more than they have asked from previous governments in twenty years. Don't get impatient. We cannot retreat. We must go forward."

Social Crediters were not bitter or revengeful. Their enemies were grieved and filled with "lust." the Premier asserted.

"I am convinced if we act carefully, every citisen will be behind us." he said. "We intend to act with diligence."

New York March 2.—Norbert Setzler of New York today wore the American open racquets championship after defeating Kenneth Chanteler of Montreal in an all-professional final of the first open tourney on this side of the Atlantic Scores were 15-10, 10-15, 15-11, 15-5 and 15-5.

Mrs. Sheffield played steady golf to win the women's hoppers. She opened up with a group of close to par figures to reach the halfway mark 4 up against Eleanor Helaterman. The letter came back on the horneward jaunt and sliced her opponent's lead, only to drop the decision, at the seventeenth hole, 2 and 1.

Brynjolfson lost a tough decision to Nicol in the morning. He was 2 up and 2 to go when the United States golfer won the seventeenth by a stroke and then took the eighteenth with a par. A stroke settled the argument at the nineteenth as Brynjolfson got this par 5, but Nicol's 4 with the stroke off was good enough to win.

Omaha might just as well be back in the United States midlands for all that English turf fans can find out about the famous Kentucky Derby winner. The chestnut son of Gallant Pox has been kept "under wraps" ever since he arrived there to start training for the Ascot Gold Cup classic, June 18.

Under called orders by William Woodward, owner, newspaper photographers and others have been barred from Freemason Lodge, the training stable operated by Captain Boyd-Rochfort, and the horse has been closely guarded against prying eyes. On his morning canter. Omaha goes out with a string of twenty, ether thoroughbreds—and only an expert could spot him among the others.

Take First Division Soccer Tussles From Saanich Thistles and Victoria City Respectively

Five goals, shared by Jimmy Worswick and Eddle DeCosta, "kids" on Esquimalt's front line, gave the dockers an easy win over Saanich Thistles at the Athletic Park on Saturday, but they falled to increase the winners' lead over Victoria West, second place team in Victoria's first division soccer. While the dockers drubbed the Thistles 5 to 2 the Wests gained a 1 to 0 verdict over Victoria City at Heywood Avenue ground.

Esquimalt now leads the league with six wins and a draw for thir-teen points, with the Wests two points behind with five victories and one tie. The City stands third with seven points and the Thistles last seven points and the Thisties last with three.

A beavy ground and loggy ball, coupled with the kinks that creep into teams from lengthy lay-offs made the brand of soccer at the Athletic Park anything but inspiring. Although the game was delayed about twenty-five minutes, Sanich opened with only eight men. Chalmers came late with Hayward and the team was brought to full strength at half-time when Crowe arrived.

The dockers seemed to have lost The dockers seemed to have lost their touch as the game opened. Passes went wild and kicks misfired.

START SCORING Three minutes after the start, with Essler in the Thistles' goal, the dockers swung down and Worswick connected for a close in shot to open the scoring. Campbell missed a good Saanich chance and Bishard was wide the scoring. Campbell missed a g

As the listless half drew to a close Johnny Murray drove in the equalizing tally for Saanich, taking the ball from a mix-up in front of the Esquimatt net.

The dockers controlled the ball better in the second half and tallied about three minutes after the resumption of play. Esquimat forwards swung down on a passing attack and Worswick scored from close in.

WESTS WIN

Fallure of the City's front line to complete their attacks was largely responsible for the team's defeat at Heywood Avenue. The game was fairly even throughout with the City dominating most of the first half.

As the initial canto drew to a close the Wests opened up good attacks.

As the initial canto drew to a close the Wests opened up good attacks, but the staunch City defence held them out.

Following the rest interval the Wests again applied pressure and Wilkinson netted the marker which gave them the verdict. He took a neat pass from John Watt to drive the ball home.

For the remainder of the game the City put up a gallant attack in an effort to equalize the score, but their efforts failed to count.

Freshmen Win Over Dominoes

Defeat Dominoes 33 to 23

After Good Battle in Seattle Seattle, Wash., March 2-Gaining a substantial lead soon after the resumption of play and holding it throughout the rest of the match, University of Washington Freshmen took the visiting Dominoes into camp 33 to 23. Saturday evening here.

The Canadian champions were not up to standard in their playing. They muffed considerably during the match, due largely to the largeness of the hall in which they were playing.

The fixture during the first half was fairly close and fast. The Freshmen were at the better end of a 17 to 15 score at the interval. At the resumption of play the University boys commenced to draw away from the visitors gradually and at the final gong were in front with a ten-point lead.

NOTES OF THE LEGISLATURE

The House did not sit Saturday.

Speculation has already started as to when Hon. John Hart will bring down his budget, the third he has presented to the present Legislature. With prospects of the first debate winding up this week and the legislation list light, it may be about the middle of next week.

The budget, it is expected, will reflect in full measure the decision of the government to "wait until fall." It is unlikely to contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the started of the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be balaneed as far as current revenues and expending the contain any new taxes but will be played.

More interest should be shown in the folk-song class, it was arged. The committee, it was pointed out, offered every possible enc year to competitors in English, Irish, Scotch and Weish folk-songs. There are also folk-song classes for national other than British with trophies both for solo singers and group singing.

Up to now, however, there are more trophies than there are competitors.

Bass voices are also singularly absent from the list of competitors this

Empire To Star Lillian Harvey

Lilian Harvey, perhaps the only English girl to achieve world-wide fame on the films, has made her first picture in her native land. "Invitation to the Waltz," which is due at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday, is a story of Napoleonic days, and provides Lilian with a part similar to the one she played in "Congress Dances," the film in which she sprang to stardom in a night. Congress Dances, the film in which he sprang to stardom in a night.

As she is under contract to British International Pictures, Lilian has made her home at Elstree. Her house, which is near the studios, is small with nothing startling about the at first sight, but it provides a setting for her dainty personality, and centainly personifies the quiet home life which the star loves so well.

Edmonton. March 2.—Citizens of Alberta learned today of increased taxation when Hon. Charles Cocktoft, provincial treasurer, before the first Social Credit Legislature in the world, delivered his budget speech. There will be a new sales tax on the basis of 2 per cent of all commodities sold; higher income taxes and a social service tax, to replace the present supplementary tax.

Automobile drivers' licenses will be put on an annual fee basis, instead of the present life certificates, and it is estimated this source will bring an increased revenue of $140,000 annually. Changes in the fuel-oil tax will bring added revenue, Mr. Cockroft estimated, of $200,000.

We are pleased to announce that

Mr. James D. Munro

Mr. Eric H. Gilmer have been added to our Board of Directors. Mr. Munro assumes the office of Manager of our Bond Department. Mr. Gilmer has been appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Company.

Bays the Dorothy Dix Will Not Turns With Vengeance

THE WORM HAS TURNED AT LAST, and when the female of the species

HE WORM HAS TURNED AT LAST, and when the female of the species does turn she simply syrates. Nothing else. The poor, downtrodden ther-in-law, indignant at having her character aspersed and her fair name made a byword and a hissing; weary of walking on eggs to try to placate her sons' wives; rebellious at being, made the family namy goat, has put her back up and is proceeding to lay down the law to her supercilious daughters-in-law.

Smarting under the wrongs to which they have been subjected and determined to make a fight for justice, even as their forefathers of old did, a group of these feminine rebels recently organized a society now known as the Mothers-in-law of Massachusetts, but which will eventually be called the Mothers-in-law of America as the movement spreads—and it undoubtedly will. Already thousands are flocking to the standard, and women who have not dared express an opinion since their sons' weddings are shouting: Liberty and equality

The constitution of the Mothers-in-law of Massachusetts is a drastic document that does not mince matters. It says: "In every human relationship, every contract, partnership, or whatever, that which we call Justice devolves upon equable division, a return of value for like value. No arrangement is legal, nor fair, nor just, in which one party takes all and gives nothing—nor gives all and gets ill return. Therefore be it resolved: That we, the Mothers-in-law of Massachusetts shall and do bind ourselves to the following equalizing rules or conduct with regard to our sons, their wives, their homes, their children and ourselves and our own homes.

"No mother-in-law of this organization shall give or offer advice of any sort, kind or form from her life experience, or knowledge, or whatever. Nor shall she give assistance based upon her skill in homecraft to the wife of her son, nor to her son. Neither shall she give or offer any assistance, presents, loans, or whatever, either material, spiritual, tangible or intangible. Her gifts to her daughter-law at marriage shall not exceed in value the sum of $5. She shall add to this nothing of any sort or kind or type, either material in value or whatever, whether old or new.

"She shall not give nor loan from her reserves either food, nor clothing, nor furnishing, nor bedding, nor kitchenware, nor linens, nor whatever.

"She shall not allow her son and his wife to dine at her home without specific invitation at any time whatsoever, and these invitations shall not exceed twice in any one year, whether upon Sundays, holidays or any other days.

"She shall not in times of financial strain give any financial assistan feither shall she in extreme urgency take into her home her son, his wife, it is family to live until their own home can be again maintained.

"She shall not, in the event of her son lacking employment, seek out any family friend or relative and obtain employment for her son. She shall consider their affairs impersonally, whether said affairs are prosperous or stringent, whether said affairs are well managed or ill.

"She shall at no time nurse her son, nor his wife, nor his children in iliness. She shall interfere in no way with the doings of his household, either to help, advise, lend, give assistance, fulfill any need, nor give ear to

"She shall view the doings of her son's family, their prosperity or lack, their wisdom or folly, good fortune or ill, illness or health, progress or retrogression with the same impersonality of attitude as toward a family across the street.

"She shall assume no responsibility with regard to her son's children nor allow or permit them to be left in her care at any time whatsoever, for any interval whether short or long."

Whew! Isn't that a bill of rights for you? It is enough to make any daughter-in-law's hair curl so that she won't need to have a permanent for years and years. For it is one thing to tell mother-in-law where she gets off and that you won't have her sticking her finger in your ple and interfering with the way you raise the children, or handing out unsought advise, but it is something else yet again, and quite different, to have mother-in-law snap her purse shut and refuse to let you park the children at her house when you want to play bridge, and Jeave you to get along the best you can when there is sickness in the family.

It is a fine and heartening thing to think of the Amaigamated Mothers-in-law of America, demending a square year from their daughter-in-law, but it will come to nothing. Every individual mother will be so afraid that her son's wife will separate him from her that she will lie down and let daughter-in-law walk over her again. let daughter-in-law walk over her again.
